Visiting Nurse Service of New York Partners in Care is hosting an open house hiring event on Monday, July 26 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 250 Fulton St., Hempstead.

Meet and talk directly with management and hear about the many different positions available from other home health aides. Enjoy snacks and giveaways as well.

The free event will be a celebratory occasion where attendees have a chance to meet and talk directly with Partners in Care managers to hear about the many different positions available. They'll also get a chance to speak to home health aides themselves about their experiences on the job.

Home health aides often spend more time with patients than other members of a home care team. From assisting with activities of daily living, to checking vital signs or simply sharing a conversation, they help their clients stay comfortable and live their lives to the fullest. All who work at Partners in Care as a home health aide will receive thorough training to develop skills necessary to be successful in the role and continue their professional growth.

"We're excited to meet new and talented workers at our job fairs this summer," said Senior Vice President James Rolla, who heads up VNSNY Partners in Care. "The contribution our home health aides make in the lives of their clients is essential and quite meaningful, and, as we saw in NYC's recent Hometown Heroes Ticker Tape Parade, the role of our healthcare workers has never been more vital—especially considering workforce shortages caused by the pandemic."

As a home health aide with Partners in Care you will be providing exceptional care that our clients rely on to stay safe at home. You will be an ambassador for our organization—and the reason VNSNY is a national leader in home care.

All are welcome, whether they are certified or wishing to become certified.
